Complete The Job

If it is possible to do so without interfering with this country's war activities, every effort should be made to complete the construction of the Trans-Canada highway without any further delay. The work has been in progress for a good many years now and it is high time that Halifax and Vancouver be connected by road on the Canadian side of the International boundary.

With the completion of the Big Bend section in British Columbia in the rough this year and with prospect of this 160 mile strip being surfaced in the spring the great all-Canadian transcontinental highway will be traversable from the Atlantic to the Pacific in the summer of 1940 except for a 160-mile gap in Northern Ontario.

The uncompleted stretch of 160 miles in Northern Ontario lies between Schreiber and Port Maitland, both on the north shore of Lake Superior, or further north on an alternative route a gap of 120 miles connecting Geraldton and Hearst. If bridged, would give a through route across the continent entirely within the boundaries of Canada. Both these gaps, however, lie in wilderness country with rock to be blasted and trees to be removed.

In view of the nature of the country north of Lake Superior, road construction is not an easy task and is comparatively expensive because of the amount of rock to be blasted, but the work is not by any means insurmountable, if supplies and labor are available. Until this work is done, however, east and west might as well be separated by 1,000 miles as by 160, insofar as road traffic is concerned.

A Real Attraction

That the announcement of the completion of an all-Canadian highway clear across the continent would draw heavy tourist traffic from the United States to this country there can be no doubt. The facility would prove attractive to a large number of holiday makers south of the international boundary under normal peace conditions and much more so while a major war is raging on the European continent.

Every year sees the migration of a large number of Americans to the playgrounds of Europe for vacation tours. It is obvious that they are people with money to spend for pleasure trips and time to spare for an extensive holiday, otherwise they would not be able to make holiday tours of Europe. Next year and perhaps for several years, if the war is prolonged, they will want to avoid war-torn Europe and will look elsewhere for a vacation.

Undoubtedly, Canada in 1940, will capture a good share of this extra holiday traffic, whether the Trans-Canada highway is completed or not, and particularly in this likely to be true in the east, but unless and until the north Ontario gap is completed, Western Canada will derive comparatively little benefit from it and will be deprived of additional Eastern Canadian traffic which undoubtedly would be offering were a through highway between east and west made available on Canadian soil.

The glamour of travel in another country to the north beckons large numbers of Americans with the means and the time to devote to it. The prospect of visiting and touring a neighbouring country at war and yet do so in perfect safety will be an additional lure to many residents of the United States, and every effort should be made to capitalize on these natural desires. But the desired result cannot be achieved to anything like its maximum possibility until Canada can offer its guests a completed trans-continental thoroughfare, and one in good condition.

A Further Incentive

It was recently announced by the Department of Transport in Ottawa that "Despite the outbreak of war in Europe, tourist travel from the United States to Canada will not be hindered, and until the present regulations be affected, which means that although this country is in a belligerent, no new restrictions have been imposed or are likely to be imposed on the personal entry of tourists from the United States into Canada."

It was further pointed out that "Citizens of enemy countries will, naturally, be subject to restrictions, but these will not affect the movement of tourists from friendly or neutral countries, who will continue to be welcomed as they have been in the past. In addition, special provision has been made to avoid inconvenience to tourists from the United States or abroad in the regulations of the Foreign Exchange Control Board."

In other words, American tourists will be able to take full advantage of the premium enjoyed by United States currency when expressed in Canadian dollars and this is an additional incentive to Americans to spend their holidays in this country.

While the steps taken by the government to prevent embarrassment to Canadian tourists are negative it requires positive action in the completion of the Trans-Canada highway if the country is to take full advantage of the opportunity offered by a continued war in Europe.

Rather A Give-Away

Now German Decoration Suggests Great Risk For Sub Crews

A new decoration for German submarine officers and crews has been established, Berlin reports. The decoration will be awarded to men who have sailed on two or more cruises against the enemy and to those wounded on duty aboard a submarine.

When a map is decorated for sailing only twice in a submarine, it suggests that the risk of death on submarine duty is now so great that those who return to port are honored like survivors of a forlorn hope. And when men wounded on submarine duty are set aside as a separate class, it also suggests that the chances are good of being wounded in less than two voyages.

Keep Tab On Coal

Canadian Coal And Coke Industry
Will Be Subject To Government Licensing

The entire Canadian coal and coke industry will be subject to government licensing Dec. 1, it was announced by the wartime prices and trade board under the chairmanship of Hector M. McKinnon.

No company or individual will be permitted to operate without a license, with the order applying to manufacturers, importers, exporters, producers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers of coal and coke, which includes all types of coal, including lignite, and all cokes, including those manufactured from petroleum.

The licensing plan will be administered by J. M. G. Stewart, Canadian coal administrator, and his technical advisor, Frank G. Neate.

The license system has been adopted "to keep the government adequately informed of the situation surrounding the production, importation and distribution of coal; to assure an adequate distribution of coal; and to protect the public against any undue advance in price," the announcement said.

"While there is presently available in Canada more anthracite than at any time during the last decade, the coal market will depend on the coal administrator's information from which it will be possible accurately to determine and to arrange for the maintenance of these supplies," the board stated.

"From Dec. 1, coal and coke dealers, importers, and exporters and producers will all report to the administrator the amount of coal and coke on hand or in transit; the quantities sold or distributed each month; the prices charged, and any further information which the board may require."

Latest figures showed dominion coal production was stepped up in September, the output reaching 1,344,072 tons compared with 1,117,269 in September, 1938. Coal imports totalled 1,744,468 tons compared with 1,559,285, while exports amounted to 42,883 tons against 30,012.

Coal made available for consumption in Canada in September was estimated at 3,046,557 tons, compared with 2,646,542 last year.

Claimed By Halifax

R.C.A. Unit Says It Has Biggest Canadian in Service

"Biggest" soldier in the Canadian army is the claim the Halifax garrison is making for Gunner N. A. MacPhail of the Royal Canadian Artillery. He is six feet, four inches in height, weighing 200 lbs., his socks, and weighs 268 pounds.

Army physical standards provide a soldier must be of at least five feet, four, and weigh a minimum of 124 pounds.

An idea of MacPhail's great bulk is indicated by the fact that he has twice the required weight with 20 pounds to spare.

And it takes double rations to feed him. When MacPhail really gets hungry, he thinks nothing of polishing off a dozen or so eggs and a couple of pounds of ham, a loaf of bread, a pie and four cups of tea.

The giant soldier is a native of Lake Ainslie, Cape Breton, home of men noted for their huge size and strength.

Enlisting on May 24, 1933, he has served in the Halifax forts since that time. He is one of the strongest men in the garrison.

MacPhail inherits his great size and strength from his hardy pioneer Scottish forbears who migrated to Nova Scotia many years ago.

His bulk would be considered small alongside that of Angus MacAskill, Cape Breton giant of more than half a century ago, concerning whom fabulous tales of prodigious strength are told.

MacAskill, greatest of all Cape Breton giants, was reputed to have been seven feet eight, and to have weighed 250 pounds. He once lifted a 2,000-pound ship's anchor to his shoulder. In lowering it, one of the flukes caught in his side, causing an injury that some time later resulted in his death.

Pilot Training Scheme

Says Every Canadian City Will Have Training Station

W. F. Schaylor, representative of a British aircraft company at Portsmouth, said every large city in Canada will have at least one and probably two training stations for plane pilots in connection with the scheme for training British Empire airmen.

"The training camps will have to be kept in the urban areas and not in the country," said Schaylor, who recently completed a tour of a number of Canada's aircraft plants.

Loyalty Of Kenya Native

Wanted Government To Accept Three Pigs As War Offering

I am enclosing a letter from a Kenya native which you may consider worth publishing. It is a charming—and not unusual—example of loyalty. The letter, which was addressed to the District Commissioner, South Nyeri, was first published in the native paper which we are issuing now in order that the native shall know exactly what is going on in Europe.

"Dear Sir—I beg you to accept me to offer my three pigs to Government, to be used in the war. I have kept three pigs only and I am in wanting them to be in the work of your Crown according my love and power, like other fellows who have given up their lives in order to defend other people's lives. I felt heartedly as I have no knowledge or experience of any work, except these give them to Government, exactly as pigs which I decided that I must I would give up my life for our Kingdom to remain just to us as it has forever.

Gen. McNaughton Pleased With Quality Of Canadian Troops

Ottawa. — When Canadian troops take their place in the line of battle they will be as well equipped as it is possible to make them and certainly as well equipped as the British forces.

This assurance came over the weekend from Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the first overseas division, who has just returned from a coast to coast tour in which he visited every unit in the division.

Backing up General McNaughton's assertion on the point was a statement from Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of defence. The minister and the general held a joint press conference in Mr. Rogers' office. For more than an hour they answered questions from 14 newspapers. General McNaughton did most of the talking with Mr. Rogers answering questions relating to government policies.

The first overseas division is being readied for service without haste but with thoroughness and all possible despatch. Formalities and red tape are being dispensed with when it is necessary to get things done quickly and the close personal relations existing between the commanding officer and officers of the different units makes this possible.

As a result of his service in the first Great War and his work in the defence department since, General McNaughton, former chief of the general staff, knows personally every officer commanding a unit in the first division and quite a number of other officers.

So on his recent tour he was able to ask and get from them complete frankness in the discussion of their problems. Where difficulties came to light they were remedied without delay.

Two things impressed the general on his tour, the high quality of the men in the division and their seriousness.

"I can hardly conceive of a higher quality of person coming forward to serve in all capacities and in all grades," he said.

The men are very serious. This is not like 1914 when men went more in the spirit of adventure rather than as a contribution to a great ethical cause."

The response of Canadian manhood to the appeal for service was due to a keen realization of the threats now directed at democracy and civilization. The men enlisting were aware that if the totalitarian states won, "which of course they wouldn't" civilization as Canadians understand it would be cut off at the roots.

"There is also a realization that this is not a light task," said General McNaughton. "Everybody recognized that if we are going to defeat the totalitarian states and what they stand for it will be a long struggle and we are going to need the whole of our resources and the whole of the resources of our great Allies, the French."

At the same time there was no occasion for haste. Canada could take reasonable time to prepare its forces before they would have to endure trial by battle. For Canada this was most fortunate. Because it maintained no large military establishment in peace."

Neither this country nor the Empire as a whole was seeking territory or advantages. They just wanted to preserve their reasonable rights and privileges. Canada has wholeheartedly supported the ideas of collective security represented by the League of Nations.

Now Carry Certificates

Rejected Men Have Proof They Tried To Serve Country

Ottawa. — Men who have tried to enlist in Canada's fighting forces and have been rejected by the medical board of examiners carry with them proof they have attempted to serve their country.

Light blue certificates of medical rejection are handed to unsuccessful applicants for recruitment, and a duplicate copy is sent to the applicant's peace-time military unit if he had been attached to any.

Joining Air Force

Montreal. — French-Canadians form about 50 per cent. of youths seeking to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force here. It was announced, due to the large number of French-speaking applicants, the force prefers bilingual recruits as service police and disciplinarians, for which a call has been issued.

Will Keep Close Check

Health Of Canadian Active Service Force To Be Recorded

Ottawa. — Up-to-date statistical methods will be employed to keep a check on the health of the Canadian active service force.

Plans for the compilation of medical statistics have been under consideration of the director-general of medical services, department of national defence. It is now expected records will be closed and will provide the public with constant information on the health of the forces.

Aerial Survey Work

Edmonton. — Pilot Robert Randal of Mackenzie Air Service returned after more than a month of aerial survey work for the federal government in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan dry areas. Photographic surveys were designed to secure information of value in combating drought conditions.

Declares A Fatal Circle Is Closing In On Germany

Paris. — Edmond Miellet, Radical-Socialist chairman of the chamber of deputies army committee, and a former cabinet minister, told France in a broadcast that after two months of war Adolf Hitler "sees the fatal circle closing in on him".

Miellet referred to what he termed Germany's fatal weaknesses—incision within its borders of large segments of hostile population; its loss of control in the Baltic, Black Sea and Balkan regions through a forced partnership with Russia; its maritime impotence; its inability to match the Allies in the air; and its incapacity to outlast two great empires which are now able in addition to buy from the United States.

Appealing to the French people to be patient, Miellet predicted "Victory cannot escape us."

Wladimir d'Ormesson, who writes on foreign affairs for Le Temps and Le Figaro and is one of France's best-known commentators on international affairs, addressing a luncheon of the American Club of Paris, said the drafters of the Versailles treaty thought they "erected a dike against pan-Germanism, but this dike was made of sand."

"Peace is impossible", he said, "while the two levels of Germanic balance have not found a just equilibrium—while the Germans of the south, if different from the Germans

Peace Proposals

Von Ribbentrop Says Germany Will Make No Formal Reply

Amsterdam. — The Netherlands government announces the German foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, had informed Netherlands and Belgian envoys in the name of the Führer that no formal reply would be made to the peace proposals of Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold.

Von Ribbentrop said the German government considered the "brusque" replies of the British and French governments had disposed of the matter.

The Netherlands government of Queen Wilhelmina will consult with the Belgian government regarding the possibility of further moves.

Further relaxation of tension in Belgium was reflected in the restoration of leaves for soldiers.

The authoritative Belgian Catholic newspaper Vingtmeille said 60 Netherlands army or police officers had been arrested in connection with a plot to smuggle Netherlands uniforms into Germany. The number of uniforms smuggled across the frontier was said to have been 5,000. Some were recovered when German spies were found wearing them and pretending to be Netherlands police or customs officials, the newspaper said.

Stein Magnate Of The Rake Takes Up Residence In Switzerland

Lucerne, Switzerland.—Fritz Thyssen, German steel magnate of the Ruhr and one of the chief backers of Nazism during the rise of Adolf Hitler, was located at the Locarno hotel, where he had arrived from Germany.

"I infinitely regret I am unable to give you the information you requested," Thyssen telephoned in answer to a request for information as to reasons for his departure from Germany. It was pointed out his lips were sealed on things political by the laws of Switzerland.

Thyssen said only that he planned an "indefinite stay" at this Swiss lake resort. He was accompanied here by his wife and one child.

Federal Revenue Up

Is Showing Decided Increase Exclusive Of Income Taxes

Ottawa. — The monthly financial statement indicated that Canada's national revenues—exclusive of income taxes—have increased several million dollars a month since the war began.

Federal revenues for October were more than $31,500,000, compared with approximately $27,100,000 for October last year.

The statement showed that customs revenue increased nearly $2,000,000 over that of October last year, that excise tax funds were up more than $200,000 and excise duties nearly $2,000,000 dollars.

Training Movie Of Meteor

Toronto Roy A. W. Banfield of

Toronto, has taken what is believed to be the only moving pictures in full colors in existence of a meteor flashing across the sky, it was announced at a meeting of the Toronto Amateur Movie Club. The picture was taken by Mr. Banfield, one-time African missionary, during a fishing trip in northern British Columbia.

This photograph, taken at an Artillery School "somewhere in England" and passed by the Censor, shows a light tank passing through a smoke screen.

Smuts' War Policy

Wins Two By-Elections Fought On Neutrality Issue

Johannesburg. — Prime Minister Smuts' war policy won decisively at the polls in two by-elections fought on the neutrality issue raised by former Premier J. B. M. Hertzog.

They were the first elections in the Union of South Africa since Hertzog was forced to resign after a parliamentary defeat for his neutrality stand.

At Bloemfontein, Miss Gladys Stein, of General Smuts' United party, was elected with 1,850 votes against the 1,236 obtained by the Nationalist leader, J. H. Malan, who has joined forces with the Hertzog group.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

After this issue there will be just four more issues of The Journal before Christmas. Beautiful sunshine and temperature considerably above freezing point at time of writing seems altogether out of keeping with the season so near to Christmas, but we all welcome such favors which lighten the labor and expense of combatting cold weather.

LAST SATURDAY it is estimated about 250 people from Coleman journeyed to Lethbridge to see Canadians win their first game of the 1939-40 season. It was a keen game as the score 4-3 indicates, and for that reason all the more satisfactory to the fans and the executive and coach of the team. The home team gets away to an encouraging start, which augurs well for success throughout the season.

THE IMPROVEMENTS on town streets particularly during the past year have been appreciated by everyone. Though early to talk of next year, if the general plan of surfacing is to be adhered to, it should be provided for. The taxes have been spent more fully during the past few years than was prevalent in earlier years, when one week a few loads of gravel would be thrown around and the next week a man and wagon would go around and pick up the rocks. Such wasteful expenditure is a thing of the past, yet vigilance is always necessary to see that taxpayers' money is not squandered.

WHEN the spirit prevails to do things, success is assured. Within a week almost the total objective of the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society achieved its objective of raising $1,000 for the national campaign, whereby $3,000-000 is to be raised. In other centres throughout Alberta similar results are reported, which indicates that Alberta's share, $150,000, will be raised. The universal appeal of the International Red Cross in its work for the wounded of all nations brings forth a response which no normal being can resist. Its work takes no cognizance of creed, color or race—its mission is to relieve suffering of those ravaged by war.

WITH the start of the hockey season, many again express the wish that Coleman had artificial ice. During the summer about $2500 was promised by business houses, but to put the project across the co-operation of mine-workers was required. There was a general disinclination to support the venture, so that the committee discontinued its efforts. The wish is always strong when the playing season is here, but the enthusiasm is not so evident during the summer months. $15,000 or $20,000 at that time appears big, but when the season is here, the cry is heard, "Why can't we have artificial ice?" We can, if everyone would help. Where there is a will, there's a way, also.

THE boost given by the Lethbridge Herald to the Canadian hockey club was appreciated. Advertising support accorded by the coal companies and local merchants made this possible, and the write-ups on the hockey activities and the team were supplied by Alex Baloch of The Journal staff. Mechanically the work was good, the photographs and the general lay-out combining to make a fine piece of publicity for the team. Two full pages were widely read throughout Southern Alberta. Lloyd Gilmour of The Herald staff solicited the advertisements.

POLITICAL activities, though somewhat subdued, are none the less being carried on. Premier Aberhart's followers are not ceasing their efforts to secure a return of the Social Credit party despite indications of disintegration within the party ranks. Significant indeed was the result of the election for trustees of the Eastern Irrigation District at Brooks. Three former trustees ousted from office by Premier Aberhart, after insinuations that "there were grave irregularities" were returned to office last week, a direct repudiation of the premier's action. A libel action is pending against Mr. Manning and the Premier for statements reflecting on the ability of Mr. E. L. Gray, former manager of the Eastern Irrigation District. Such is the folly of allowing one's tongue to wag too freely.

A country newspaper publisher is supposed to have time at his disposal to attend every meeting, concert, prize fight, be on every committee that is striving for the uplift of the community, be a member of a church board, board of trade, and many other organizations, be on the spot night and day, write nice things when someone is married or dies, give much white space away in his paper instead of sell it, from which his income is derived, never should make errors; in fact if he did all the things expected of him, he would never have a minute's rest. On top of this he gets

OF INTEREST TO THE LADIES

DeCecco-Lipovski

A wedding of local interest took place at Holy Ghost church on Saturday morning when Anna, daughter of Mr. Louis Lipovski and the late Mrs. Lipovski, became the bride of Feruccio, only son of Mrs. Angelo DeCecco and the late Mr. DeCecco. Attendants were Miss May Toppano and Mr. Tony Lipovski, brother of the bride, Rev. Father J. T. Dunbar conducted.

Entering the church on the arm of Mr. Joe Biehle to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Isobel McDonald, the bride looked beautiful in a white gown of taffeta with low veil and white accessories and carried a bouquet of roses and chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaid was lovely in a pink mauve dress with blue accessories and carrying a bouquet of roses.

High mass was held during the ceremony. Miss Peggy McDonald sang "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony the bridal party gathered at the home of the groom's mother on Fourth street where the wedding breakfast was served. The happy couple are at present on a honeymoon at Trail and Nelson and on their return will reside on Fourth street.

Newly-Weds Honored

Relatives and intimate friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Gillespie on Friday evening to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. William Tucker, (nee Miss Maisie Gillespie) who left on Saturday for their new home at Vancouver. A toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. W. H. Garner, who paid tribute both to the sterling character of the bride and that of her parents. The toast was responded to by the groom, Dave Gillespie, father of the bride, humorously re-

Your Children's Eyesight Should Be Carefully Guarded

They have home work to do, and good light is necessary to prevent eye-strain. Many children not making satisfactory progress at school are retarded through eye-strain, mostly due to insufficient lighting. Electrical current is so cheap that all can afford to use it liberally.

THEATRES

"The Mikado" at Palace

It is 50 years or more since Gilbert and Sullivan wrote that gay musical play, which has been produced thousands of times in many countries. It was the D'Oyly Carte Opera Co. at the Savoy theatre, London, which first presented it, and the latest screen adaptation is a masterful reproduction, with the original songs which have always retained their popularity. It is the main feature this weekend at the Palace theatre, and capacity houses are anticipated.

Ladies bridge clubs are now holding weekly meetings true to scheduled form.

E. D. Battum of Calgary was here during the week on his regular audit inspection of the town office.

The main street was very quiet last Saturday night, with many of the regular habitues attending the hockey game at Lethbridge.

A. Harper, manager of Remington Rand Ltd. branch at Lethbridge, and J. Reynolds, mechanic, were here on Friday, and serviced all the typewriters in the high school.

Mid-term reports have been mailed to parents of students in Grades VII. to XII. inclusive. Parents and guardians not receiving reports are urged to communicate with the principal—D.H.

A few friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Devine last Saturday evening presented them with a club bag and a travelling case, Col. R. F. Barnes expressing the sentiments of the group on the departure from Coleman of the honored couple. They have lived here for over twelve years, Mr. Devine having been tipple boss at International Coal Co. With their daughters, Sheila and Brownie, they left on Sunday for Calgary, where they will live for the present.

Mr. Dan McLean of Ottawa on an inspection trip of western air fields stopped off at the Penhold field on Saturday, spent Sunday in Innisfail with his parents Mr. and Mrs. L. M. McLean, then went on to Edmonton where he picked up his plane and returned south on Monday afternoon. In passing over Innisfail Mr. McLean dipped down to pay his respects to his parents and the Old Home Town. Some of us were inclined to think that Dan was giving our chimney pots the once over—Innisfail Province. Dan McLean frequently visited Coleman when arrangements were being made for the airfield west of Coleman. His brother, Dr. Keith McLean, now of Vancouver, left here in 1938 after living here for six years.

Mr. McLean was made in Coleman Union cemetery.

The funeral was held from the family residence at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, Rev. H. J. Bevan conducting. Pallbearers were J. Balloch, A. Walker, J. Bell, J. Barclay, J. Anderson sr., and M. Wilson. Interment was made in Coleman Union cemetery.

Out-of-town visitors at the funeral included Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Henderson and family, Lethbridge; and Mrs. Fulton, of Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid spent a few days in Calgary.

PREDICTS AUSTRIAN REVOLT

The "true Austria" is on the side of the Allies and will break away from Nazi Germany before the war is over, Archduke Otto von Habsburg, heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, said in Paris. "The Danubian people will permanently block Hitler in southeastern Europe," he said.

Mrs. Wm. Pryde
Died on Saturday

Death came quietly to Mrs. William Pryde, aged 76 years, on Saturday evening at 6:10 o'clock. She retired to her room shortly after supper stating she was a little weary, and after a short interval when her son William went to see if she was asleep, he was shocked to find her dead. Deceased had returned to her home only three weeks, before, after a week in the local hospital.

Born at Strathmiglo, Fifeshire, Scotland, in 1863, she married William Pryde at Strathmiglo in 1886. In 1924 she and her husband, who pre-deceased her in February of this year, came to Coleman with their son William and had resided here since.

Deceased took a keen interest in local Caledonian Society's affairs and attended the annual Burns' Night regularly. To mourn her passing are two daughters, Mrs. Duncan Bayne, of Methil, Fife, and Mrs. Alex. Henderson, of Lethbridge; and three sons, William of Coleman, Robert of Hillcrest, and Dave, of Lochore, Fife, as well as ten grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Also James Taylor, who has been a member of the family for the past thirty-three years.

The funeral was held from the family residence at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, Rev. H. J. Bevan conducting. Pallbearers were J. Balloch, A. Walker, J. Bell, J. Barclay, J. Anderson sr., and M. Wilson. Interment was made in Coleman Union cemetery.

Out-of-town visitors at the funeral included Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Henderson and family, Lethbridge; and Mrs. Fulton, of Calgary.

When Marshal Werner von Blomberg was ousted as German minister of war for marrying Errike Grunn, a carpenter's daughter, he started a chain of events which led to his downfall, according to a report by Sir Neville Henderson. With the moderate von Blomberg gone, Hitler surrounded himself with war-minded advisers, a British white paper suggests.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The governor and committee of the Hudson's Bay Company announced appointment of Lieut.-Col. Hugh Farquharson Osler, Winnipeg, to the Canadian committee.

Lord Nuffield, automobile manufacturer and philanthropist, has supplemented his $6,675,000 gifts to buy recreational equipment for men in the military services by another $22,500.

On behalf of Hon. J. L. Ralston, finance minister, it was announced that tenders had been accepted for the full amount of $25,000,000 Dominion of Canada treasury bills due Feb. 15, 1940.

Appointment of agricultural and swine production committee in Alberta intended to assist in supplying Canada's wartime food requirements was announced by Hon. D. B. Miller, provincial minister of agriculture.

Word has been received in Toronto of the safe arrival in England of 53 English schoolgirls who were visiting Canada when war broke out. The girls made a secret sailing from Canada with Major Fred Ney, their director.

Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of Dominion experimental farms, discussing agricultural aids to the Empire in war, to a service club, suggested that production might be increased and that soy beans offered a sound crop opportunity.

Gasoline will sell at the highest rate in 15 years in the United Kingdom when an increase of three pence raises the price per gallon to one shilling nine pence half-penny (40 cents), according to an official announcement.

Ancient House Preserved

Queen Elizabeth Wanted Ancient Home On Thames Saved

Radnor House, at Twickenham, on the Thames, between Strawberry Hill and Pope's Villa, has been preserved as the result of a wish expressed by the Queen. It is a treasure of architectural history. The house will probably be leased at a "peppercorn rental."

To-day this signifies a nominal rent, but in the Middle Ages spices cost a great deal and the obligation to pay a pound of pepper every rent day gave housewives as much worry as payment in paper money does to-day.

Strawberry Hill is so called because Horace Walpole grew strawberries at his villa in the district in the 1750's. Pope's Villa has nothing to do with Alexander Pope, except that it was built on the site of a house originally inhabited by Pope. It was erected by an unknown tea merchant less than one hundred years ago.

Former President Believes In The Ultimate Restoration Of His Country

Edward Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, expressed confidence in the ultimate restoration of his country, the exact form of which he was content to leave to a "just settlement on a democratic basis" after the war.

The statesman, who now holds the title of "Chief of Czechoslovakia," told the Daily Mail the Nazis are confronted by the twofold peril of reprisals from the subjugated Czecho-Slovak and Polish peoples.

"Czecho-Slovakia," he was quoted as saying, "is not so much a country now as a vast conspiracy. The whole nation is spiritually and morally in conspiracy."

Spider Doing Its Bit

Britain Using Delicate Webs For Graticules Of Binoculars

The lowly spider is doing its bit to help Britain win the war, a director of a binocular production disclosed.

The insect's delicate web is used for the graticules of binoculars. The procedure is not new but was mentioned by the director in describing the British war effort.

This delicate web provides the fine line of lenses by which angles may be judged. Human hair spun in glass is too thick for the line.

The director displayed for the first time in public the progress manuals by which the Ministry of Supply has told firms of methods of manufacture. He said the dominions had been made familiar with all the manuals and that Canadians had obtained production information.

Outlining the problems of converting industry to war requirements he said the Government was attempting to utilize small as well as big firms.

It was necessary to spread the load so industry could also turn out normal products and thus swing back after the war without a crash.

Examples of industrial conversion included electrical industries turning out tanks, gun mountings, guns, instruments and shells; agricultural plants; producing tanks, guns and gunnery; the knitting, machinery industry turning out small arms, compasses and instruments; sugar factories; engineering armor plate, shells and tank components; the gramophone and wireless industry making fuses, gauges, shells and cartridge cases.

The director said the problem was to convert the plowshare to the sword and ensure that everyone gets the rightful quantity. The efficiency of war, he said, depends on industry.

New Device A Success

Whaling Crews Use Wireless To Keep Track Of Catch

An article by Brian Roberts in the Polar Record, says:

A new apparatus has been put into use this year. When a whale has been shot, it is pumped with air to keep it afloat and a lance with a flag is driven into the blubber to establish that the whale belongs to the expedition whose flag it carries. In clear weather the flag also serves to enable the catcher to find the whale again, for it is often left to float about while hunting continues.

If the weather is foggy the catcher may be forced to search for it for hours and sometimes the whale is lost altogether. The idea therefore occurred to fix a small wireless transmitter on the whale so that its position could be located with the direction finder on the catcher. After more than ten years of experimenting, whale-trappers have been supplied by Norsk Telefunkens. The transmitter itself is enclosed in a case of rustless steel which is fastened to a lance and rests by means of two spikes against the carcass. It transmits signals every minute and each expedition has its own special signals. To judge from reports already received, this device is proving very successful.

Building A Locomotive

Provides Work Equal To Year's Labor Of 50 Men

New locomotives for Canada's railroads have been ordered. What this means in terms of employment, says the Brockville Recorder and Times, will be appreciated when it is known that the building of only one standard locomotive provides work equivalent to the labor of 50 men for one year, and that it also requires more than 7,500 parts from 118 manufacturing plants.

Pilot balloons, which are similar to toy balloons and which are used for meteorological observations, have been known to ascend to a height of 17.1 miles into the stratosphere.

During the reign of George IV, a man was required to contribute to poor relief before being allowed a license to sell cider in England.

Japan's invasion of China is reported to have created 80,000,000 refugees from various occupied areas.

The Fastest Plane

With Large Propellers With Four To Six Blades

The fastest plane will be powered by the most efficient air-cooled engines will emerge from the laboratories of the United States National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, research workers said.

A new knife-like wing will enable a plane to fly at speeds of 500 miles or more because it will nearly eliminate the "shock wave" which develops on a wing surface when the plane's speed approaches the speed of sound, about 740 miles an hour.

The new engine of which are reaching the production stage will have three times the power of present engines. This development, which required eight years of research by the committee's engineers, is merely a different arrangement of the fins, or strips of metal lining the outside of the engine cylinders to carry away excess heat.

Such terrific power increase creates another problem—new propellers which can utilize the power available. The committee's engineers are at work on propellers of larger diameter. They may have four or six blades instead of the present two or three.

A new factor of safety in flying is expected to be added by the development of safety fuels—gasolines which have the power of present fuels but which are similar to kerosene because they will not explode except in an engine cylinder.

Chinese Are Grateful

Societies In Canada Giving Liberally To The Red Cross

Quietly, Chinese residents in Canada have done their bit to assist the Canadian Red Cross Society's war effort. It was announced by Red Cross officials in Ottawa.

A Chinese woman into the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, who had been a laundry operator and in charge of the local subscription group there.

The Red Cross branch chairman took a receipt for the money and the donor then explained that was not all the money the Chinese were to contribute.

The Chinese said every Chinese society in Canada has been instructed to open subscription lists for the Red Cross "because of what the society has done in China during the Japanese war."

The Canadian Red Cross, in cooperation with churches in Canada, contributed $6,255 during the last year for medical and sanitary supplies in China's devastated areas, mostly for the prevention of epidemic diseases.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 26

THE WORKS OF THE MESSIAH

Golden text: Jesus of Nazareth . . . went about doing good. Acts 10:38. Lesson: Matthew 8 and 9. Devotional Reading: Isaiah 61:1-3.

Explanations and Comments

A Leper and the Centurion's Servant Cured, Matthew 8:1-13.

Peter's Wife's Mother Cured, Matthew 8:14, 15. After a service in the synagogue of Sabbath, Jesus entered Peter's home and found his mother-in-law suffering with a fever. Compassionate as he always was for the sick, he took the fever and laid it on the bed. The fever left her and she was able to minister unto them. "Peter's wife's mother. So the apostles have to confess that the first 'cure' was a married man!" (Whedon)

Many Healed at Evening, Matthew 8:16, 17. It was the Sabbath and the people crowded in, evening (the day ended at sunset) to be ministered to by Jesus to their sick and demon-possessed. He cast out the demons and healed the sick. The people declared, which said, "Himself took our infirmities and bare our diseases." Christ healed diseases and in doing so bore the curse of sin in any sense in which these verbs can be predicted of a physician." (Allen)

The Healing of the Storm, Matthew 8:23-27. "If after a day of labor and excitement, with heavy incessant demands upon him, evening came and found him spent and weary, he would go to the shore park and sit down in a place to form a straps. DELICIOUS... REFRESHING

THE RIVER OF SKULLS

With May the high barrens began to wake from their winter's sleep. Shoulders of tundra thrust through their white blankest to expose lichen-green pastures of caribou moss.

Riding the brown snow water, after the ice left the Talking, came Alan and Noel in the canoe they had taken to the Sinking Lakes on the side. When John and Heather returned from the barren with bags filled with cranberries, they planned their start.

"It will be June before the ice leaves the big lake," said Alan, "but we can take our stuff in the two canoes to the head of it and be ready to start when it does."

"Yes," agreed McCord, "we've got no time to lose."

On the last day, as they sealed doors and windows of the cabin against the sure attacks of bear and wolverine, Heather turned wistfully to Alan: "Remember, Alan, that day last winter when I came back to find you and Noel with Dad?"

"Do I remember?" he laughed. "Your eyes were like saucers and your mouth opened like that." He indicated the extent of the opening with hands held wide apart. "You wondered what kind of animal had drifted in out of the bush."

"I know now," she said, "that two good friends drifted in."

Alan gazed curiously in the girl's sober face. "Brace up, Heather!" he said, with a laugh. "Just think, girl, what a great time we're going to have!"

Her fine brows contracted as she returned his gaze.

"Do you think, Alan, we're ever coming back?" she asked. "I've dreamed such terrible things that winter. McCord will surely ambush us when we start back with the gold—if we find it."

Its honey-combed ice flooded with pools of water, and entirely open in wide areas, from which rose clouds of vapor, the great lake reached, under the June sun, to the hills dim in the eastern horizon. For days the big Peterboro had waited while these two and a girl watched its frozen shell soften and break up.

"A few more days, and we'll be able to start for the cache at the outlet," observed Alan, as he and McCord removed the great kola-mesh and silvery white-fish from their gill-net and returned to the hungry dogs who stood, breast-deep in the icy water, clamoring to be fed.

"Probably the ice at the foot of the lake is out by now," replied McCord, "and a good south wind will start these big rafts up here. I wonder how close behind us McCord is."

"Not far, I'll bet. But he'll never get the two Connor River Indians to go down the river with him. We'll only have four to hand when the time comes. What are we going to do if he has dog us clear to the River of the Skulls or—?"

"What d'you say?" interrupted the big man in the other end of the canoe.

"I say I don't want to sail all summer and then fight for our dust. I'd rather fight now!" Suddenly Alan's gray eyes softened, as he added: "But then, there's Heather."

"Yes, there's Heather. Their game is to trail us, then wipe us out to get that gold, and what would become of her?"

"I've been thinking of her. I didn't want her to come. Now she's with us. I've turned Indian."

"You mean?" The cold eyes glittered beneath the livid scar on McCord's forehead.

"I mean when I think of Heather in their hands, I forget all law. It's a finish fight, John and no quarter. They're going to make it their lives or ours!"

McCord's big knuckled hands closed involuntarily on his paddle. "I finish fight, no quarter, partner!" he repeated, quickly. "A law off on the Koksoak. Drummond got without meeting them. But we're bound to run into them somewhere on the Koksoak. Then they'd murder Heather, later, before they reached the coast—leave no witnesses, no evidence against them. And they'd have our gold!"

"There's another thing, John—the Naskapi. Drummond got without meeting them. But we're bound to run into them somewhere on the Koksoak. Then they'd murder Heather, later, before they reached the coast—leave no witnesses, no evidence against them. And they'd have our gold!"

"There's another thing, John—the Naskapi. Drummond got without meeting them. But we're bound to run into them somewhere on the Koksoak. Then they'd murder Heather, later, before they reached the coast—leave no witnesses, no evidence against them. And they'd have our gold!"

The giant nodded. "Let's hope McCord meets up with them first."

At last the south wind and the high June sun cleared the lake of its rotting drifts, and the big Peterboro, in which they were to make the voyage, reached the hidden cache at the outlets. There the precious bags of flour, beans and pemmican which they were to leave with the extra canoe, were wrapped in tar-paulin and stored on the high platform. While the freshest water following the ice thundered down the three outlets into the flat valley to the north, the supplies for the summer were carefully overhauled and packed in bags. Spruce setting poles were cut and shod with irons McCord had brought from Rupert. Every ounce of superfluous equipment was stored on the cache, for they could not guess what long portages awaited them on this unknown river that flowed hundreds of miles north to the sea; what churning white-waters, around which they would have to pack canoe and supplies. Only the Naskapi and the caribou in their migrations had looked up the upper Koksoak.

The water dropped rapidly and Alan and Noel returned one night from an inspection of the cache outlet, which they were to follow, with the news that the river was now passable for a canoe. Following their daily custom, when the boys had eaten, they climbed to the nearest high ground to sweep the lake with their glasses.

Miles to the south, Alan's glasses picked up something of interest.

"What you see?" demanded Noel.

"He handed the binoculars to Noel and waited for the Indian's verdict.

"Ah, ah!" grunted Noel. "Camp smoke!"

"Land-locked salmon, boy. I've caught them often in Quebec! Notice that line of black spots along the side! By gory, I'm going to have some fun, nights on this river, for I've got a rod and some files, lad! My Scotch blood wouldn't let me come without them."

To Alan's amusement McCord produced from a stout skin case, a jointed steel rod, a reel with oiled silk line and a small leader and flyhook.

Good river men thought they were, the next few days taxed the skill and strength of the crew. Chutes and white-water and flumes followed each other endlessly. Past boulder choked shores where great cakes of ice left by the high water still melted in sand ridges above them, the Peterboro jolted. Packing around roaring falls and rock-harred rapids, they labored day after day, while always beyond the valley reached the tundra, its white moss slopes stippled with flowers and mapped with caribou paths.

"Eight on our heels, like wolves after deer, eh! Well, they won't find much deer in us!"

But Heather sat gazing into the fire, her brown face grave with foreboding. Noel, too, was silent as he worked on a paddle with his drawknife, for the tales he had heard since childhood of the spirit-haunted rivers and the fierce nomads who roamed the interior following the caribou herds harassed him.

Shortly after daylight, the Peterboro slid into the silent of the first drop of the outlet on its long voyage north. Fast shores rimmed with red willows and alders behind which the young leaves of the aspen shimmered in the breeze, apple-green against the olive of the spruce, they rode the strong water. Farther on, past bold, boulder-strewn shores and through lake expansions, they travelled beyond the sunset and into the after-glow.

In the morning, when they raised their net, Alan took from among the red-bellied square-tails and the whitefish, a graceful, dark backed silvery fish and held it up for John's inspection.

"Ah-hah!" grunted Noel.

"Camp smoke!"

"It must be a winnisher, John, as sure as you're born. No see salmon can get up here above all these falls and it's too early, anyway. We don't have them follow on the course of the Herne's Salmon, was red spots, lad! This proves we're on Koksoak waters."

McCord's brown face winced in a grim as he examined the fish.

Support For Hitler

Says German People Are Solidly Behind The Fuehrer

The war guilt is not Adolf Hitler's alone, but must be shared by the German people who "supported him and idolized him," W. Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard and president of the Canadian Press, told the Canadian Club of Toronto.

"I am sick and tired of hearing people say, 'we must not blame the German people,'" he said. "Why not? They put Hitler where he is. They supported him and idolized him. They made no protest when he seized Sudetenland, nor when he marched into Austria, nor yet when he seized Czechoslovakia in direct violation of his widely published declaration about not having any further territorial ambitions."

"We have been fooled by the German people just as the society crowd in England were fooled who wind and dined and honored that astute apostle of Nazism, Herr von Ribbentrop."

Mr. Davies, who visited the capitals of Europe immediately before the outbreak of war, said he was convinced the German people are "right behind Hitler." He found no German who was not enthusiastically sympathetic with everything Hitler was doing.

A Cow On The Track

Caused Trouble For The Engineer As Well As The Superintendent:

I remember a trip I made, as superintendent, on the day we placed a new train schedule in effect. The train made an uncalled-for stop in the country and I walked up to the front end to locate the trouble. I found the train crew leading a milk-looking cow off the track and an irate woman waving her flat in the face of an unusually meek engineer. I was a godsend to that engineer, who introduced me as the 'superintendent', and then made a hurried exit. I was the very man that woman wanted to see. Would I change the new time-table. What was the idea of running the train past her farmyard an hour earlier than usual? Didn't I know that it had taken three years for Susan the cow, to learn the hours at which she could graze on the right-of-way? It was not far to the station to enact an entirely new schedule in effect overnight.

I couldn't argue with the lady and I was forced to listen to one of the most comprehensive lectures of my life. Perhaps I was a wiser and better man when the train got under way again. The Late A. E. Warren on Early Railroading.

For Safer Driving

Engineering Developments Which Aid The Driver

That day has slipped into the remote past when highway safety was mainly a matter of traffic regulation. The engineering developments which have been made in all efforts to build safety into automobiles are so numerous that an ordinary motorist cannot name more than a few of them from observation.

Study of the "fatigue" of metals has led to the making of parts not likely to give way to shock. "Steering geometry" has guided engineers in designing apparatus to work easily and surely on curves, hills and the straight-away. Vibration has been reduced to prevent tiring of the driver. Even such a detail as the spacing of spokes in the steering wheel has been improved to give a clearer view of the instrument board.

Most comforting is the thought that all this has been done without requiring more technical knowledge in drivers who don't wish to think of engineering. The human element, though still responsible for most accidents, seems less hazardous—New York Sun.

A Question Of Weight

An Englishman, an Irishman, and a Scotswoman were arguing as to which of their respective countries had the lightest men.

The Irishman, full tilt at the obvious, led with: "We have men of Cork."

The Scotswoman: "Yes, but we have been of Ayr."

"But," said the cockney, "we have lighter men on the Thames." It was enough!

United States To Start Mass Training of 40,000 Troops

Bogies at nine scattered army posts in the south and northwest signaled the full start of mass training by 40,000 troops to provide the United States with its first siegework fighting force since the Great War.

Five "streamlined" infantry divisions, one cavalry division, and auxiliary units will be put through four months of field maneuvers ordered after President Roosevelt proclaimed a limited national emergency.

Meanwhile, intensified training of other regulars and of national guardsmen is in full swing in parallel moves to assure teamwork.

A cat and 12 pigeons were released 20 miles from home in Belgium, and the cat reached home first.

The oldest copper roof in the world is that on the Hildesheim cathedral in Germany. It was put on in 1320.

NERVES HELPED

ONE of the best things a woman can take for nervousness is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Remedy.

It is a prescription written by a physician who specialized in women's ailments.

Miss Mary Johnson of 17 William St., Galt, Ont., says: "I had headaches and insomnia and I was nervous and irritable. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Remedy and I got well."

Foss Boulton Goes to Trenton

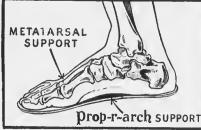

Foss Boulton left Calgary last Friday for Trenton, Ont., for advanced training for the Canadian Air Force. He passed at the top of his class of seven in Calgary, and now proudly sports his wings. From Trenton he will go to Camp Borden, and there after further training will await word for going overseas to take his place in the fighting air force on the war front. His parents were at Calgary to see him off.
